The Jacksons' legacy is the definitive behind-the-scenes chronicle of the Jacksons' lives and careers celebrating 50 years of one of the greatest acts of all time.

The first book-length study of the career of the director of such classic films as The Day the Earth Stood Still, West Side Story, and The Sound of Music, this volume combines thorough cast and crew credits, critical responses, awards and nominations, production notes, and comments from the director himself, resulting in a unique overview of a remarkable career. In addition, a complete annotated bibliography of all books, articles, and interviews by or about Wise is included. An interesting feature is the examination of many of his unproduced projects. Wise's career began with RKO as an editor for such films as Citizen Kane (1941) and The Magnificent Ambersons (1942), when he then stepped in for director Gunther von Fritsch to complete Curse of the Cat People (1944). At 20th Century Fox, Wise directed The Day the Earth Stood Still (1951), Somebody Up There Likes Me (1956), and Run Silent, Run Deep (1958). West Side Story (1961), which Wise codirected with choreographer Jerome Robbins, marked the beginning of the third phase of his career, a period marked by mammoth productions that met with overwhelming approval, commercially and critically. West Side Story, Audrey Hepburn (1977).

offers reviews of more than three thousand albums of film television and stage music a basic reference book for anyone interested in musical films it contains over 1600 entries covering not only the most important actors composers lyricists directors choreographers and producers but also the most memorable songs and films from his early days as a film editor at rko studios where he helped orson welles shape citizen kane to his success as a director and producer of musical blockbusters of the 1960s robert wise had a long and illustrious film career unlike contemporaries such as alfred hitchcock john ford or howard hawks however wise s films lack any clearly discernible characteristics to signify his work there are few striking camera angles or visual flourishes that might distract from the primary obligation to present the story and like hawks wise never specialized in one or two genres but brought his directing skills to all manner of films his work as a director resists auteur categorization and that is a chief reason why some critics have been unduly negative in their consideration of his work in the films of Robert Wise. Richard Keenan examines the nearly forty features that represent the director's career from Curse of the Cat People in 1944 to A Storm in Summer in 2001, the only television production Wise ever directed. Keenan offers a reappraisal of Wise's films so that the true quality of his work can be better appreciated. Keenan argues that if there was a flaw in Robert Wise as a director, it was that he lacked the ego and temperament of the artist, which was not necessarily a flaw at all. Indeed, Wise was a conscientious craftsman who saw his work not primarily as a vehicle for his own ideas and visual style but as an opportunity to present narrative that quite simply engages, informs, and entertains. It was this perspective that helped produce a number of memorable films over the years, including the gritty noir Born to Kill, the one-two punch of The Set-Up and Somebody Up There Likes Me, the sci-fi prophecy The Day the Earth Stood Still, and the gripping indictment of capital punishment I Want to Live! Classics All Wise also won a pair of Oscars for two of the most memorable, not to mention successful, musicals of all time, West Side Story and The Sound of Music. Drawing on more than 30 hours of interviews with Wise as well as additional interviews with a number of his collaborators, Keenan offers a welcome reassessment of the director's work. In his analysis of each film, Keenan reveals both Wise the craftsman and the artist. In doing so, The Films of Robert Wise finally confers upon this underappreciated director the recognition he deserves.
